THE UNORGANIZED SECTOR WORKERS’ SOCIAL SECURITY BILL, 2007

September 2007
INTRODUCTION

The National Common Minimum Programme (NCMP) of the United Progressive Alliance (UPA) which was formed after the general elections in April/May 2004 was announced on 27 May 2004. It set out the major policy orientations adopted in order to enhance sustainable development in India. In the spirit of the Alliance, it referred in its preamble to the welfare of farmers, agricultural workers and weaker sections of the society and strongly stated a commitment to ensure, through social security, health insurance and other schemes the welfare and well-being of all workers, particularly in the unorganized sector who now constitutes 94% of the labour force. To follow up this commitment, the Government established a National Commission to examine the major problems facing the various enterprises operating in the informal economy.

In August 2005, the National Commission published an ambitious plan (The Unorganized Sector Workers Social Security Draft Bill) aiming to provide a minimum level of social protection benefits to some 300 million informal economy workers. This proposal could be viewed as paving the way towards a nation-wide social security system based on the national solidarity principle. Almost one year later, in May 2006, the Commission released its report on Social Security for unorganized workers which included a revised version of this Bill.

The proposed Bill had the following key features (See ILO Information Paper – May 2006):

- The objective was to cover in a phased manner and over a five-year period 300 million unorganized workers (both wage earners and self-employed workers) earning less than Rs 6,500 per month
- The following main contingencies were to be covered: medical care, sickness benefits, maternity protection, survivors’ benefits, disability and old-age pension
- Contributions were set at Re 1 per day from each worker, employer and Government (Rs 3 per day – Rs 1,095 per year)
- There would be no contribution to be paid for BPL workers – his/her contribution would be paid by the Central Government
- A specific level of benefit was recommended for each contingency (for instance, under medical care: Rs 15,000 to cover hospitalization expenses of a family of five)
- The implementation machinery would associate at all levels, representatives from the Government, trade unions, employers’ organizations, local government and civil society organizations

The detailed report submitted to the Government resulted already from a broad consultative process developed over two years by the national Commission. The document included in annexes the major comments provided by trade unions, employers’ organizations, academicians, civil society organizations, etc. Regular interactions were also organized with the World Bank and the ILO which provided information referring both to social security extension experiences in India and in other Asian countries.

Upon submission of its report, the National commission choose to intensify the social dialogue it had already initiated in order to share and clarify its recommendations with all concerned parties and to better reflect their views in its subsequent work. As a result of this extensive consultation process, the 2006 version of the Bill evolved over time with new drafts being prepared both by the National Commission and the Ministry of Labour and Employment.

On September 10th, 2007, the Ministry of Labour and Employment introduced into the Parliament, a new version of the Unorganized Sector Workers’ Social Security Bill, with the following main features:

- The objective was now to cover in a phased manner and over a five-year period 60 million Below Poverty Line workers (and their families);
- The following main contingencies were to be covered: medical care, survivors’ benefits, disability and old-age pension;
- Contributions and benefits were not defined any more;
- The responsibility to design appropriate health insurance schemes was transferred to the State Governments;
- National and State Advisory Boards were to be set up to recommend from time to time additional welfare measures and schemes.

Administrator by the Ministry of Rural Development, the National Old Age Pension Scheme (NSOAP) provided a flat Rs 75 per month to destitutes above 65 years. In his Budget Speech for the year 2006-07, the Minister of Finance decided to increase the pension to Rs 200 per month, and urged the State Governments to make an equal contribution from their resources so that a pensioner would get at least Rs 400 per month. The States of Tamil Nadu, Uttarkhand, West Bengal and Rajasthan as well as the Union Territories of Andaman and Nicobar Islands and Pondicherry have already started distributing Rs 400 per month or above to NOAPS pensioners. In the year 2006-07, the total number of pensioners was reported to be 8.6 million.

Also administered by the Ministry of Rural Development, the National Family Benefit Scheme (NFBS) provides a grant of Rs 5,000 in case of death to natural causes and Rs 10,000 in case of accidental death of the “primary breadwinner” of a family. In 2006-07, the total number of families having received this benefit amounted to 171,000, a sharp decrease from the previous 272,000 level.

On April 1, 2001, the administration of the National Maternity Benefit Scheme (NMBS) was transferred to Department of Family Welfare. The scheme provides a cash benefit of Rs 300 per pregnancy up to the first two live births to women belonging to the Below Poverty Line group.

Launched in 2005-06 by the Ministry of Textiles, the Mahatma Gandhi Bunkar Bima Yojana (MGBBY) is a life and disability insurance scheme administered by the Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) of India. It provides the following benefits to the weavers between the age group of 18 and 59 years: Rs 80,000 in case of death due to accident, Rs 50,000 in case of natural death, Rs 50,000 in case of total permanent disability and Rs 25,000 in case of partial permanent disability. The premium amounting to Rs 330 is shared between Government of India (Rs 150), LIC (Rs 100 – out of the Social Security Fund set up by the Ministry of Finance) and the policyholder (Rs 80). As an additional benefit, the scheme also provides scholarship benefit to two children (Rs 300 per quarter per child studying in standard IX to XII for a maximum of four years).

The Health Insurance Scheme (HIS) for handloom weavers was launched in 2005-06 by the Ministry of Textiles in collaboration with ICICI Lombard Insurance Company. The scheme covers hospitalization expenses up to Rs 15,000 for an individual of which the OPD cover is Rs 7,500. Set at Rs 1,000 per year, the premium is shared by the Government of India (Rs 800) and the policyholder (Rs 200). In 2007, the scheme was covering 1.8 million.

The Scheme for Pension to Master Crafts Persons is in operation since 1973-1974. It provides a pension to Mastercrafts-persons unable to work due to old age. In 2001-02, 201 persons under the above pension scheme were availing a pension of Rs 1,000 per month and 18 new beneficiaries have been sanctioned pension till December 2001.

The Group Accident Insurance for Active Fishermen is provided through the Fishermen Co-operative Federation in collaboration with a public sector general insurance company. The scheme provides Rs 50,000 in case of accidental death or permanent total disability and Rs 25,000 for partial permanent disability. The annual premium payable cannot exceed Rs 15 per individual, and is to be co-shared by the Central and State Government.

Under the Saving-cum Relief component, Rs 75 per person is collected for a period of 8 months in a year. A total of Rs 600 thus collected is matched with 50% contribution i.e Rs 300, each by the State Government and the Central Government separately. The total sum of Rs 1,200 will be distributed during the four lean months.

The Janashree Bima Yojana scheme was launched in August 2000 and is implemented by LIC (see ILO/ISEC study: Showing the Way Forward: India’s Redistribution Experience in Extending Social protection to All).

The Aam Admi Bima Yojana scheme is planned to be launched in October 2007. Administered by LIC, it plans to cover 10 million poor during its first year of operation.
