Social protection responses to the COVID-19 crisis around the world

26 March 2020

This note summarizes the results of the Social Protection Monitor that tracks announcements of social protection measures responding to the possible impacts of the COVID-19 crisis.

We will update this note as new data and information become available in this rapidly evolving situation.

Disclaimer: Owing to the exceptional circumstances generated by this global health pandemic, there has been intense activity in terms of the breadth of national responses and therefore not all information contained in this document could be fully confirmed with reference to official legislation or legal bulletins.

Consult our website for regular updates from the world of work response to the COVID-19 crisis.

The ILO Social Protection Monitor <sup>1</sup>

Between 1 February and 22 March 2020 <sup>2</sup>, 46 countries and territories announced at least 97 social security measures in response to the COVID-19 crisis. The overall response rate in the world is 21.5% (of 214 countries and territories). <sup>3</sup> Asia and the Pacific, the first region hit by the pandemic, made 13 country announcements (28.9% of the countries in the region), followed by 11 countries in Europe and Central Asia (36.2%), 11 countries in the Americas (24.4%) and 1 country in the Arab States (8.3%).

China announced its first set of social protection responses on 12 February and the number of countries and territories that announced responses quickly jumped from 3 in February to 43 in March, including 63 measures announced by 34 countries just in the last week, 16–22 March.

<sup>1</sup> ILO's Social Protection Monitor is based on a systematic analysis of media/news published online. The Monitor tracks announcements of social protection measures, defined as any policy decision that affects the functioning of a social protection system, from minor parametric adjustments to major developments and reforms, as well as social subsidies. While the Monitor provides the most comprehensive list of announced social protection measures and a snapshot of current global trends, it does not replace the thorough analysis provided by the ILO's Social Security Inquiry and the World Social Protection Report.

<sup>3</sup> This brief provides a systematic classification of social protection-related policy responses to the emerging COVID-19 pandemic. It is part of a series of ILO briefs on social protection in crisis response, including: ILO, Social Protection Responses to the Covid-19 Crisis: Country Responses and Policy Considerations, forthcoming; and ILO, Social Protection Responses to the Covid-19 Crisis: Country Responses in Asia and the Pacific, 2020.

Most measures provide social spending or social programme adjustments (57.9% of total) by either allocating additional financing or changing the configuration of existing programmes. The remaining measures involve the introduction of new programmes or benefits (22.1%), improvements in administration (10.5%) or the introduction of subsidies (7.4%) or tax reforms (2.1%).

In the context of the COVID-19 crisis, the measures announced cover all functions of social protection. Nearly one fifth (18.9%) of the responses in the period are related to health, closely followed by unemployment benefits (17.9%). New or increased social transfers to low-income families, sometimes to all residents, have also been widely adopted (17.9%), followed by adjustments to pensions (8.4%), sickness leave or benefits (6.3%), family benefits (6.3%), labour market measures (5.3%), housing subsidies (4.2%), food allocation (2.1%) and benefits for parents of children (2.1%).

Overall, more than half of the adopted measures aim to increase the benefit levels (23.2%), extend the coverage (22.1%) or relax the eligibility criteria (5.3%) of existing social protection schemes, while other measures include facilitating access to benefits (11.6%) and improving services (3.2%). New temporary or one-off programmes have also been introduced (8.4%). About one fifth of the measures seek to alleviate economic burdens by deferring, reducing or waiving social contributions made by employers and insured persons (7.4%), subsidizing benefits (4.2%) or social contributions (3.2%) and increasing credit and budgetary allocations (2.1%).
